Walking tours - Situated in the Southwest region of Ireland, a pleasant drive from The Mustard Seed, on the borders of counties Limerick, Tipperary and Cork, Ballyhoura Country is an area the undulating green pastures, of the Golden Vale, of woodlands, hills and mountains.

The area has been described as "a haven of beauty and tranquillity", where the pace of life is slow, offering the discerning holidaymaker the chance to re-discover quality living, like it used to be, from the people of the Ballyhoura themselves.

Two mountain ranges, the Ballyhoura's and the Galtee's, offer walkers a unique experience to explore the Irish countryside at its best. With over 1,500km of off-road marked trails, the area offers much in the way of walks, from leisurely strolls through peaceful pastureland or forest tracks, to the Ballyhoura way, a 90km long-distance walk which traverses the area from east to west.
